TIGA announces MMP Tax as finalist for award for assisting members in claiming Video Game and R&D Tax Relief for immediate release

Publish date: 9 October 2015

TIGA has announced that MMP Tax is a finalist in the 2015 Games Industry Awards. The winner of the Tax firm category will be announced at the prestigious awards dinner to be held at LSO St. Luke's Old Street (home to the London Symphony Orchestra) on 12 November 2015.

MMP Tax has been a supporter of TIGA for a number of years helping lobby for the Video Games Tax Relief (VGTR) scheme to be introduced into the UK. The VGTR has now been successfully adopted into legislation.

The finalist award recognises the contribution that MMP has made in assisting members of TIGA to claim the VGTR and R&D Tax Relief (R&DTR) during the past year.

MMP, the independent specialist technology tax consultancy firm, works with TIGA member games studios, to ensure that members gain maximum value from the schemes; including assisting them with the cultural test certification by the British Film Institute as a part of the full service offering.

David Marshall, Director at MMP Tax Limited, commented:

“MMP is delighted to be a finalist in the category of best tax firm from TIGA and pleased to be supporting TIGA members with their claims for R&D Tax Relief and Video Games Tax Relief. The welcome addition of Video Game Relief / Games Tax Relief to existing technology tax incentives, means that UK games development studios will not only benefit directly from these tax incentives but also from the positive impact they have on the industry as a whole”.
